Wild Elvish accent

Wild elves substitute the following letters:

'f' for 'v' - “venison” becomes “fenison”

's' for 'z' - “buzz” becomes “buss”

'b' for 'p' - “pat” becomes “bat”

'y' for 'j' - “judge” becomes “yudge”

'th' as in thistle, for 'th' as in the

Wild Elvish to Common

*yen (yen, like the Japanese currency) - (n) daughter. The suffix 'yen is attached to the mother's name to "name" a wild elven female who has not completed her yai'sofel.

Rules for Word Meaning (Note: None of these rules are 100% constant. For example, a word can end with "a" without denoting maternalism. What is important is the context of the words.)

* -a = suffix which means "mother of". Will either be directly attached, or will conjugate if the word ends in vowels. Ex. "Elucha" is "mother of trolls", while "owia" is "mother of bluejays"

* -y = signifies pluralization of some words {eg. Fei(y)=chief(s)}

*-as = suffix used to make a verb into a noun, for physical verbs (see sanas)

*-us = suffix used to make a verb into a noun, for metaphysical verbs
